Amid escalating tensions in the Middle East between Iran and Israel, United States President Donald Trump has urged both sides to halt hostilities immediately.

In a brief message posted on the social media platform Truth Social on Sunday (June 8), he said that Israel and Iran must quickly stop the ongoing conflict.

Trump did not provide further details, but directly called for an end to the violence between the two countries.

Analysts say the situation has become increasingly complex as both sides continue exchanging attacks and tensions keep rising.
