

Protests against Donald Trump across the United States

Protests have been held in five states of the country against US President Donald Trump. The protests took place in protest of Trump's agenda in the social and economic fields

Protesters held the rally on Saturday (April 5th) called 'Hands Off' at 1200 places in other states including Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, New York and Washington DC. This is the biggest protest against Trump after taking over for the second term. News BBC.

At this time, the protesters were seen giving various slogans against Trump. They protested against the anti-immigrant campaign, Shulkop. They also criticized the influence of Elon Musk in the Trump administration. Various placards containing the Hands of Canada, Greenland, Ukraine are also seen in the hands of the protesters.

Meanwhile, Democrat lawmakers also attended the protest rally. They also warned to propose a prosecution against Trump.

"I have come together in the national crisis," said a Dallas protester. Because they are not following the constitution. They think everything will be themselves. But it will never happen. This country is ours.

A protester in the city of Atlanta said that what was happening was the abuse of power. The Senate is not being heard for such a big step. People have come to raise the voice against them.

"We are fighting for democracy and the constitution," Democrat party Congress member Elhan Omar said. I am fighting for the desired future of my family. President Trump wants to be autocratic. I will not accept any autocratic in America. A wealthy president bought the seat next to the president and made him a doll. But American democracy is not for sale and it will not.

Al Green, another Congress member of the Democrat party, said President Trump might not be able to complete the term this time. We will propose a prosecution against Trump within 5 days.

On the other hand, the anti-Trump rally was held outside the United States, including London, Paris and Berlin, after the announcement of the imposition of Donald Trump's import tariff on five countries and regions of the world
