

Resignation of U.S. Intelligence Chief Tulsi Gabbard

U.S. Intelligence Chief Tulsi Gabbard. Photo: CNN

Tulsi Gabbard has stepped down from her position as the Director of the United States National Intelligence. On Friday (May 22), she announced her resignation by posting her resignation letter on her X (formerly Twitter) account. Following the announcement, the development has sparked discussions in various circles. However, she did not provide detailed reasons behind her decision.

Her sudden departure has created fresh curiosity within the U.S. political landscape.

